They’re back, and this time stronger than ever! A sequel to the 2009 film, G.I. Joe: Retaliation is all set to hit the silver screens in India on 27th March, 2013. Filled with a lot more action & adventure, director Jon Chu not only brings back a few familiar faces from the first film, but also brings in a stellar new star cast that has the entire industry talking.

In this sequel, the tables have turned & the Cobra Commander is in charge & the very existence of the G.I. Joe has been threatened. With the assistance of the original General Joe Colton, the G.I. Joe are prepared to fight tooth & nail to defeat the ruthless Cobra Commander & save the country. The film was originally slated for release last year, thus steadily increasing the curiosity amongst audiences all across. With actors like Dwayne ‘The Rock’ Johnson & Bruce Willis taking the lead and returning characters like Channing Tatum the audiences are in for a visual treat this summer!

Considering the huge fan base that both G.I. Joe & its actors have in India, the film is eagerly awaited by one & all. What the audiences can expect from this sequel is more guns, bigger explosions, uber-cool weapons & epic fight sequences. Moreover, with such a strong star cast & an equally well-built back story, G.I. Joe: Retaliation is sure to ‘rock’ the box-office. After all, “When all else fails, they don’t!”