Every young girl dreams of a perfect husband, someone who she hopes to marry someday and live life happily ever after like in a fairy-tale. But do such dreams ever come true? What happens when she has to face reality?

Taking forward the thought of ‘illusion vs. reality’ and in keeping with its promise of constantly innovating, Sony Entertainment Television along with Swastik Productions together present a new fiction show titled Amita Ka Amit

Produced by Swastik Productions Amita Ka Amit is a simple story set against the Gujarati backdrop of Mumbai, that narrates the life of Amita, a simple and unassuming girl who dreams of an extraordinary life partner and a picture perfect sasural. She hopes to marry the man of her dreams, and expects her knight in shining armour to be no less than a handsome film actor. Immensely pampered by her parents she hopes to receive the same love from her future in-laws too. But does the perfect boy exist in reality, will destiny fulfil her wishes and luck favour her? The show will see the debut of the bubbly and effervescent actress Chandini Bhagwanani who will essay the role of Amita a sweet, trusting regular girl next door.