The wait is finally over. The first song of Imtiaz Ali's Highway, Patakha Guddi, will be released today, 7th January at 4:30 pm. The music of the film has been composed by the maestro A.R. Rahman and ever since the film's trailer came out, all eyes and ears have been eagerly awaiting the arrival of the soundtrack.

Patakha Guddi, written by Irshad Kamil and sung by the Nooran sisters from Panjab, is picturised on Highway's leading lady, Alia Bhatt, who plays the role of Veera in the film. As she traverses through the roads of northern India, Veera gradually comes into her own and lets loose. Patakha Guddi celebrates her free spirit.

Says Imtiaz: "Patakha Guddi is about freedom. It is also about purity and wildness. Who better than the wild children of Panjabi music - Sultana and Jyoti Nooran - to sing the track? After Rockstar, it was great to collaborate with Rahman Sir again and we have tried to keep the Highway album melodious, simple and heartfelt."

Adds lyricist Irshad Kamil: "Patakha Guddi gives the fragrance of Punjab with its piousness and free spirit. The lyrics take the flight according to the growth of Veera's (Alia) character in the film. The song has raw energy in its composition, singing and even in the choice of words."

Highway, produced by Window Seat Films and presented by Sajid Nadiadwala, will be released worldwide by UTV Motion Pictures. The music of the film will be available on T-Series.

Highway will release worldwide on 21st February, 2014.
