Salman Khan is known for having a kind heart beneath his robust six packs body. So what does the good Samaritan none other than Salman have to say?

In a recent conversation he confirms,” Actually the rates of the rickets are really very high...especially in multi-plexed. However, Arbaaz and I wanted the exhibitors to reduce the rates of the tickets. We especially approached them to bring down the ticket rates. Undeniably, having such a huge massy fan following I want each and every fan of mine to watch my latest film”Jai Ho” which is all set to release.”

Continuing further he adds,” This reduction in the rates of the tickets for our film would bring down our Box office collections. Nonetheless, we were prepared for the same. We do want a great collection but then I also want to entertain all m y audiences too. Hoping against hopes this decision finally vests with the distributors and the exhibitors’, thus they decided not to reduce the tickets fare for our film”Jai Ho.”

In spite of Salman’s good human gesture the fans will have no other way ...but go ahead and watch their favorite stars buying tickets with exorbitant rates!!
