Pooja Chopra had to postpone the shooting by a few months of her next films with Vipul Shah-Roonagar Ke Cheete and Commando 2 due to her leg injury. She had an accident on 28th December 2013 after which she immediately went under a treatment and had 50 stitches. She is advised to take rest for 4 months and will resume shooting once she recovers.

"When the filmmakers came to see me in the hospital, I told them to go ahead with the film with someone else. They refused point blank saying that they were very clear that they wanted me to be part of their film. Therefore, the entire schedule has been pushed back by three months," said Pooja, who is currently recovering.
