Moving ahead of Saif Ali Khan's Phantom to 2nd October has spelled good news for Ajay Devgn. The actor would now arrive solo on 15th August, hence in the process ensuring that his Singham 2 roars the loudest.

"All decks are now clear for Ajay and Rohit Shetty," confirms our source, "There is no competition for the film any more. Ajay would be enjoying a holiday release sans any trouble this time around. He now has one of the biggest holiday slots all for himself with 15th August falling on Friday. Since recall value of 'Singham' is so high, the sequel is anyways much awaited."

While we too believe that, here is an interesting trivia. Though Saif and Akshay (who is coming with his It's Entertainment a week earlier on 8th August) have already been shooting for their respective films, not even a frame of Singham 2 has been captured by Rohit with Ajay.

"That won't be an issue though," an associate adds, "They both work really fast and even though the shooting would begin only in a while, rest assured the date with Independence Day would be met."
