Salman Khan gave the entire unit a scare of their lives for a couple of hours. He chose to do the high risk action sequence on his own. Salman Khan who is currently shooting in Poland, left the entire unit on tender hooks for around 5 hours till he finished shooting a pivotal sequence for Kick.

With all safety precautions taken by the unit, it was still extremely risky for Salman Khan to hang from the 40th floor of the tallest building in Poland. Palace of Culture and Science is a huge tourist attraction and always has hundreds of visitors on a given day. While the unit was able to cordon off a very small area below the building as they were shooting the facade from a long distance, hundreds of fans were standing to cheer and clap every shot that was being taken.

The interesting thing was that every movement of Salman Khan was met with a laugh, a collective sigh and a lot of claps.

Sajid Nadiadwala confirms and adds Salman Khan was incredible. Sajid Nadiadwala's Kick is Salman Khan's release on Eid this year.
