For the very first time, major action shots of Sajid Nadiadwala's Kick have been shot using drones (mini helicopters). This is first time in India and drones are essentially used for Hollywood action films.

The Salman Khan starrer has been shot in a lot of real life locations.

Even in the trailer of the film, we see hard core action shot in Delhi and in Poland.

While they were shooting the action sequences in Poland, Sajid Nadiadwala's production team along with the international team working there arranged for drones to get the best shots.

Multiple drones were used to get shots from different angles so that all sides could be covered.

Drones are expensive and need expertise of different kind to be filmed. This talent was especially flown in from LA.

Be it for promotions or while they were shooting, Sajid Nadiadwala is sparing no expense towards his directorial debut.

With the help of these drones, they managed to get shots even better than usual and Sajid Nadiadwala was very keen to have them.

They had a special team on board to handle the drones as they needed to be handled in a certain way.

Everyone was extremely happy with the outcome. Recently in Mumbai, a drone was used to deliver a pizza.
