

Jai Ho starring Salman Khan is the first big film to release in the year 2014

•Written by amit bachchan•

••Friday•, 03 •January•, 2014 03:18• -

The film is Salman's next big release post Dabangg 2. Jai Ho's release will be Salman Khan's release after he was last seen in Dabangg 2, which was almost a year back. This has been Khan's longest gap between releases.

After watching Salman doing action sequences in Wanted, Bodyguard and Ek Tha Tiger, the actor will be doing never seen before action for Jai Ho.

The film has been made on a very huge scale and the shoot of the film has been done in various countries.

Jai Ho has an ensemble cast which includes Daisy Shah, Danny Denzongpa, Tabu and Genelia D'souza among others. This project marks the debut of Daisy Shah, who will be seen romancing Salman Khan.

The trailer of this big film has created a lot of buzz about the film and has got people eagerly waiting for the release of the film.

Jai Ho starring Salman Khan is the first big film to release in the year 2014

•Written by amit bachchan•

••Friday•, 03 •January• 2014 03:18• -

The film which is slated to release on 24th January 2014 will also start its promotions in full swing from the start of 2014.

This is because Salman feels 2013 was not his year. In 2014, the actor has another big release apart from Jai Ho so he would commence promotions in a big way in the start of the year.

Spokesperson says Salman Khan's release is coming after a long gap of a year. Its the first big release after 2014.