Juggling both Bollywood and southern cinema, Shruti Haasan is one busy actress these days. Now as she has begun shooting for 'Gabbar' in Mumbai after an appendix operation, her date diary has been re-worked, and guess what, the actress has decided not to do her dad's film.

It's heard that Shruti Haasan has walked out of Kamal Haasan's next bi-lingual film Uthama Villain due to lack of dates. In place of Shruti, a newcomer will apparently be cast.

Confirming the news, papa Kamal Haasan is quoted as saying, "Yes, our dates didn't work out. But in a way it's good. It's too early for Shruti and I to share screen space together."

Kamal further elaborates that it would put pressure on both of them as performers, but he wants to work with beti Shruti in the future, when she is more experienced. Currently, Shruti has Bollywood flick Welcome Back in her kitty, apart from 'Gabbar' with Akshay Kumar.

Akshara Haasan will be launched by R. Balki in his next, starring Dhanush and Amitabh Bachchan.
