After hugging each other at Baba Siddiqui's Iftaar party, Bollywood superstars Shah Rukh Khan and Salman Khan did it again, much to the audiences surprise, at the Star Guild Awards 2014.

Reportedly, Salman, who was hosting the event couldn't resist saying 'Shah Rukh kya ho rha hai' to his frenemy SRK, who was sitting on the other side of the stage. He also congratulated the King Khan on the success of his blockbuster hit Chennai Express and Khan waved back to acknowledge his compliment.

But all eyes were glued to the stage, when Shah Rukh came up to receive the Entertainer Of The Year Award, as both the Dabangg Khan and the Baadshah were sharing the same stage. However, to everyone's amazement the superstars hugged each other and the gesture was applauded immensely by the audience. Shah Rukh also went on to say that the award felt special as he was receiving it in the presence of the biggest entertainer the nation has seen.

SRK and Salman had a fallout during Katrina Kaif's birthday bash in 2008.
