Sanjay Dutt, who is presently out of Pune's Yerawada Jail on a month long parole, has now received another month's extension of his parole.

Sanjay's wife Maanayata Dutt, who has been suffering from liver and heart ailments, was recently diagnosed with tuberculosis and after learning about his wife's medical condition, Sanjay had filed a plea for 30-day extension of his parole.

Dutt, who is presently serving the remaining 42 months of his sentence for possessing illegal weapons, was previously granted two weeks furlough, which was later extended by another fortnight in October 2013. Dutt was released on a parole of one month in December 2013 to take care of his ailing wife.
