The excitement, the adrenalin, the whole experience of surviving the country's biggest show is unbelievable! I had never imagined I would last till the end and emerge as the winner after all the madness, drama, fights, cries and what not! I dedicate this victory to my late father, my fans who supported me, without them this would not have been possible. Having my own share of ups and downs with each of my co-contestants, I definitely need to credit them for putting up with me and making this journey worthwhile. There is a lot that I am taking back with me from this experience of Bigg Boss Season 6."
