There are few actors who have to put in a minimum of 3 hours to get ready for the character they play onscreen for instance Amitabh Bacchhan took five hours daily to get ready for the role he played in the movie 'Paa'. This requires a lot of patience and determination to sit still and let others transform you to make you look the way you do on screen. But there are few lucky one's as well who take no time at all. One such actor is Aneri who essays the role of Nisha in STAR Plus' Nisha aur uske Cousins.

"I play a tomboy on the show so I take like five minutes to get ready for my character. I am so glad that I don't have to put in hours for the make up and hair as in real life too I am a no makeup person. Just like my character Nisha, I too believe that it is more important to prep yourself intellectually everyday and spend hours in keeping yourself updated about your surroundings rather than spending that time in looking pretty as looking good is a temporary thing", said Nisha.

'Nisha aur uske Cousins' will air soon only on STAR Plus
